PAST EVENTS

15th May AN ABORTIVE ATTEMPT TO REACH HINERUA HUT

At 6.30 p.m. on a grey and overcast Sunday morning we set off hoping to reach Hinerua Hut.

On this trip John proved himself to be an able leader and Ann a capable co-navigator.

After driving down Hinerua Road we reached a gate on which was posted a no trespassing sign, but after inquiring at a nearby farmhouse, where we found we could ignore the sign, John drove on finally parking the car at the intersection of two metalled tracks.

We took the lower one which proved to be our downfall and after tramping down gullies and up ridges, traversing slips and cliffs, we reached the top of Stumpy at 12 o'clock where we decided to have lunch and to abandon the fruitless quest for the elusive Hinerua Hut.

After eating our lunch, with Glen doing a bit of cadging, we headed back, working our way through some bush and scrub to a ridge on the East where we found the four wheel drive track, to which we hoped to come.

A herd of interested white cattle studied us for a while and John became a bit nervous climbing over the numerous barbed wire fences.

Suddenly Wendy cried out, 'There it is', which, to our astonishment, proved to be correct as we thought that we still had a fair way to go to find the car.

On the way back to P.N. we brewed up beside a small river, with milkshakes at Dannevirke, reaching Palmerston at 5.30 p.m.

Finally, thanks to John for once again using his car.

Those on the trip: John Carter (leader), Ann Flux, Wendy Christoffels and Glenn Osborne.

11 – 12th June HIKURANGI RANGE

Other peoples' trip accounts can be rather dull. How to make this account exciting reading?

Could describe the tremendous weather conditions on Saturday or the horrendous weather conditions on Sunday but that's all old hat. Who is interested in hearing how far we could see or what beautiful patterns the hoar frost crystal formed or how the trees were heavily frosted with ice? Even stories of plunging waist deep into the Kawhatau river with snow in the river bed sound far fetched. What about nearly getting knocked off a steep slip by a dislodged boulder? Probably be discounted as an exaggeration. Maybe a bit of scandal would do. But what? Trevor losing the track? ((Ah! I know! But the libel laws, oh dear! Anyway, I have written enough to satisfy the typist?!))

Those taking part were: Philip Budding, Kevin Pearce, Trevor Bissell and Allan Stowell.

12th June DAY TRIP TO CROW HUT

After dragging ourselves out of our nice warm Sunday Morning beds, nine of us converged on the Upper Kawhatau River in the Western Ruahines, to tramp up to Crow Hut.

We finally left our two cars and made our way up the river but after 30 minutes and half dozen icy cold river crossings, the already bad weather decided to get worse. As we were all turning blue with the cold, it was unanimously decided to turn back and sample the tea and warmth at the Forest Services Base Camp which proved very welcome.

With the warmth enveloping us, we decided to curtail any further tramping for the day and headed home early.

Those on the trip: Rosemary Buchan, Susan Cameron, Peter Croad, Christina Mackinder, Colin Hoare, Ann flux, Nick Bishop, Mark Quinney and John Carter.
