PAST EVENTS

NGAMOKO RANGE

Well it looked like it was going to be one of those weekends. The cloud was lying low down on the hills with little likelihood of its lifting; a chance for the newer members to try their navigation and their storm gear. After some ear bashing by one or two of the more noisy sorts, who stated it would be better if we all went home instead of braving the elements, we left the road end just after 0800 hrs. and proceeded to make our way across the farmland and up the "Super Heritage highway" to the Tunupo "off ramp" where after about an hour's traveling a member decided that due to injury he could go no further and so subsequently about turned and hobbled back to Heritage Lodge where we are told he spent an interesting weekend. (No names mentioned but he resides in Feilding.)

Lunch time was had on Tunupo at 12.00 sharp because of union rules. There were only the odd glimpses of farm land because of the cloud so we proceeded on towards Tarn

Bivouac through some quite strong winds and what a welcome sight that Biv. made. The thought of a cuppa! Well while the tea was being brewed the tent flies were sorted out and three figures who shall remain nameless, lay claims on the Biv. The wind became stronger and tea consisted of 14 pints of stew and 6 pints of instant pudding. The night came quickly and before long we were in our sleeping bags, some trying to think of anything else other than cool moist cloud and flapping tent flies.

Well next morning was no better, if not worse and Mt Toka was awaiting our arrival, so on we plodded. Well, we must be getting near civilization again. Another "super highway" known as Deerford Track where we met the day party climbing leisurely upwards. Farmland at last plus rain, so after some consultation we decided to visit Sixtus Lodge where they kindly gave us a cuppa while we had lunch and waited for our transport to be picked up and brought back so that we could go home for a hot bath and meal. "Oh, the thought of it!!! The drive back brought noisy renditions from Peter and his Trudge, but alas he will have to improve before he's let loose again with that particular piece of literature.

DIGGER'S HUT

Nine people left the Supersave car park at 8.00 a.m. for the overnight trip to Digger's Hut.

We followed the river from Komako to the first forks by which time Chris and Glenys Saunders decided their young Roderick had had airing enough and returned home. The rest decided on a change of terrain and climbed up the ridge which later dropped down to the hut.

Half the party decided to have a comfortable night on F.S. mattresses while the more intrepid half found a pleasant patch for their fly. A round trip was completed the following day before the really heavy rain set in. The people on the day trip were well and truly caught in this.

The overnighters were Joan Bower, Jenny Smith, Sarah Godfrey, Allan Dunn, Paul and Gill Davies.

The day trippers were Trevor Bissell, Lawson Pither, Heather Crabb, Rosemary Buchan, Priscilla, Susan Cade, Anne Flux, Donna Linklater, and Raehel Yoeman.

RUAPEHU

We crawled up the windswept road from Ohakune and peered through the mist for the turn off to Massey Hut. A "road closed" sign told us we were there and we carefully avoided a long line of steel towers and chair lift pulleys on our way to the front door. Obviously the A.H.I. redevelopment of the Turoa skifield was in progress and in a big way.

The mountain dawned misty and this tended to hinder preparations somewhat. Construction vehicles were rumbling up the road and these were followed by Kevin, Peter and Greg. After a bit of cheek from the newcomers 15 people squeezed into the van which ground its way through 2" of freshly laid shingle up a much widened mountain road. An extended improved car park at the end of the road was the scene of much construction (two buildings in fact) and men and machinery were in operation.

Phillip and Ross went off rock climbing and the rest of us ambled upwards. Kevin's car load soon caught up and everyone spent some time playing in a snow sided gully. Kevin plus four soon disappeared up the mountain, followed in a vague fashion by eleven more bods. Eventually it was decided that, because of the absence of a view, of sunshine and because of the periodic rain and wind that we could perhaps think about going down. So we climbed some more over boulders and rock which extended up between snowfields.

On the way down a third semi completed building was noticed and the odd concrete piles had been placed for chairlift towers. A helicopter blew forth and back, ferrying materials. It was our opinion that A.H.I. will have to work very quickly to be ready for the ski season.

A lively evening's entertainment was provided by the "Gladiators of the Beam" a strange breed of fighting men with clanking appendages who joust while dangling from the ceiling of Massey Hut. Kevin and Chris also found outlets for their climbing talents by ascending the underside of the stairs, hand over hand. The crux was a tight squeeze between the top two steps while bridging between a wall and the staircase.

Sunday was a much nicer day and 14 went to the top of the mountain. Four went around to Wanganui Hut and Lake Surprise.

A GUIDE FOR TRIP LEADERS

IN ADVANCE OF THE TRIP

1. Supply the Trip Convenor with details of your proposed trip for inclusion in the Newsletter (starting time, special equipment etc.) If you don't do this before the deadline for the Newsletter these details will have to be decided for you without your being consulted.
2. Collect names and telephone numbers of persons wanting to go on your trip (at Club Night and by telephone.) Also note who has transport. Satisfy yourself that everyone is sufficiently fit and experienced before you accept their names. You don't have to accept anyone who you have doubts about, or anyone who applies to come on your trip less than 48 hours in advance. Advise everyone of food and equipment requirements.
3. Research the area you are visiting. Obtain maps, question Club Officials about details of road routes, tracks, bridges etc.
4. If necessary, obtain permits, permission from farmers and book huts etc.
5. Borrow from the Club Gear Custodian any equipment you will need (billies, stoves, tents, rope, first aid etc.)

JUST BEFORE DEPARTURE

6. Contact a member of the Committee or some other responsible person and give them a full account of your intentions.
Just before leaving on your trip leave a list of the names and phone numbers of your party at the Police Station (Church Street) together with the name and telephone number of the responsible person with whom you have discussed your plans. Include on the list your latest expected time of return and details of the equipment your party is carrying. (Printed forms are available from the Trip Convenor for leaving at the Police Station.)
7. Obtain an up-to-date weather forecast.
8. Check that everyone has all essential items of equipment (mittens, snow goggles, boots, parka etc.)
9. You are not obliged to wait for late arrivals beyond the advertised starting time although you may wish to allow some grace.

DURING THE TRIP

10. Keep the party together or if it is a large party it may be broken into two or more small, groups each with its own leader and "tail ender."
11. Insist on your party taking regular breaks for adjusting boots and clothing, eating and resting etc. The first stop should be soon after starting, then every 50 minutes take a 10 minute break - the timing should be flexible - preferred stopping places include at the top or a hill, a hut, a lookout etc. Don't let stops become too prolonged and discourage unofficial stops. Check for blisters.
12. Periodically review your plans. Is there still sufficient time to reach your destination? Is the party strong enough, will flood rivers cause difficulties, what will happen if the weather gets worse? Modify your plans if necessary.
13. Put slow or inexperienced persons near the front of the party - second position is ideal.
14. Make brief and concise entries in all hut log books.

15. Encourage party members to observe the Minimum Impact Code. Pack out all rubbish that is not clearly biodegradable or which can not be completely burnt. Leave huts clean and securely closed.

16. If your party is late getting home telephone ahead as soon as possible. Telephone either the parent of one of the party members, the responsible person mentioned in paragraph 6, or if you are very late, the nearest police station.

17. Upon your safe return to Palmerston North telephone or call at the Police Station and have the trip list destroyed. If you don't do this the Police will telephone the responsible person whose name is included on the list, probably when they are asleep in bed.

AFTER THE TRIP

18. Ensure all club equipment is returned to the Gear Custodian in a clean and dry condition, preferably by Wednesday but definitely within 7 days .of the trip.

19. Write up a trip account for the newsletter or get one of your party to do this. The account need not be long.

20. Report any untoward incidents, difficulties, changes to tracks or huts etc. to the Trip Convenor.

GENERAL

21. If for any reason you find you can not go on a trip you are scheduled to lead you must find an alternative leader. Only in exception circumstances (such as sudden illness) will the default of a leader be viewed sympathetically.
