RANGI HUT

The Committee has approached the Ruahine Forest Park Advisory Committee seeking its support in having the Forest Service replace Rangi Hut. This action, which was precipitated by recent criticism of the Hut's condition, recognizes that the Hut is nearing the end of its useful life. Rangi is probably the most visited hut in the Ruahines because of its accessibility by a graded benched track and its commanding position just above the bush line.

At the moment the Committee has no firm views on the nature of the new hut, but is thinking along the following lines:

- (i) sleeping accommodation for 16 persons on platforms rather than individual bunks,
- (ji) ample space for day visitors,
- (iii) hut to be built on or near the present site,
- (iv) the Club would make no financial contribution to the cost of the new hut as the tens of thousands of dollars involved are quite beyond our means,
- (v) replacement to be as soon as practicable, i.e. within 2 – 3 years.

The Committee was divided on the question of whether the hut should be equipped with a stove. Some felt that the sub-alpine scrub could not support the collection of firewood. Others feared that if no stove was supplied, some users would build open fires outdoors.

A strong case can be made for Rangi's replacement and a favourable response from both the Advisory Committee and the Forest Service seems likely. Members are invited to make their views on the above and related matters known to the committee.

PAST EVENTSOrienteering – 5 July – Kohitere Forest

Trampers are good at orienteering! Only five members turned up in rather threatening weather for the Club's first orienteering event, which was organised by the Red Kiwis Orienteering Club. It was held in a steep pine forest near Levin.

Novices Chrissie Elliott and Don French teamed up and won their first 1.1 km 7 control D course in 16 minutes. Not far behind in 6th place were the novice pair Catherine Farquhar and Nora Flight who took only 25 minutes to complete the course.

Encouraged by these successes Chrissie entered the B course (2.9 km, 10 controls) and came second in the stunning time of 59 minutes. Cathy and Nora were 8th in the same event completing it in 90 minutes. Old hand Kevin Pearce entered only the A course (4.5km, 14 controls) and managed 6th place in 102 minutes while Don came in a creditable 13th in 131 minutes.

The team enjoyed their day and are planning to do more. Orienteering has much to offer the trumper who can only get away for an hour or two and who wants to maintain physical fitness and improve navigation skills.

20 - 21 June – Mid Winter at Rangī

Various people, at various time, all heading up to our own little hut in the Ruahine Ranges for our mid winter get-together.

Some of us (Trev Bissell, Terry Crippen, Sheryl Sporry, Mike Freeman) headed up early on Saturday, via the Oroua River and along the Whanahuia Range. From Tunupo Campsite we found a good track onto the southern end of the range. A good snow cover gave us very cold toes (especially Trev's and Terry's). We reached the hut about 7 hours later to be greeted by some of the others already in residence.

Phillip² Budding and Beech, Raewyn Devonshire, Ron Dyheman and Kahne the dog, had done a quick tramp in the snow up to Mangahuia on the top of the Whanahuia Range. Vern Jensen and family were also up at the hut for the day. Vern is on the Ruahine State Forest Park Advisory Committee. Numbers began to increase as Richard Gapes, Jo Eder, Salley Hewson, Julie Cade, Nigel ?, Gillian MacDiarmid, and Murray Patterson arrived.

Good food, wine and a singsong from various editions of Trudge kept us up till about 10 p.m. So it took a while for things to get going on Sunday morning. This was hindered even more with a light fall of snow for breakfast.

Trev and Mike headed out via the Range. Terry, Sheryl, Jo & Jill headed up to Mangahua. On the way back they met Alan Dunn, Ross Cummins and Janet Hayman up for the day.

Although nobody went for a mid-winter swim, it was good to get a lot of us (22) up to enjoy the company, snow and tramping.

Another day and a half tramping through beech forest took us to the Hotel Tronador, where Stu and Geoff left us to cover some country we had already done. Miles and I stayed to do some fishing with the rods we have been lugging around for two months. We talked to the very pleasant hotel owner for a while - she spoke good English, has read "The River Rules my Life", and gave us two free beers, and took us across the lake in their boat. We managed to buy a loaf of bread there, but otherwise had only flour, milk powder; spaghetti and soup for food. Luckily we caught 5 kg of trout meat next day, and two days later, two hungry trampers arrived in Bariloche after lugging still heavy packs over the tops.

It might surprise Godzone Trampers to know that New Zealand has no monopoly on natural beauty. Chile and Argentina keep any tramper amused for a lifetime!

- Eric Van Toor

Extract From Plateau Hut Log Book

"I compare the Mt Cook east ridge ascent with the Eperon de la Branva on South east ridge to Mt Maudit. These routes are probably the nicest ice and snow climbing around Chamonix.

To climb Mt Cook East Ridge and to stay alone with your partner on the top is the good way to enjoy the Kiwi mountain loneliness. In French Alps you cannot feel this loneliness; too many climbers everywhere; too many climbers with a bad and sad mentality. I wish everyone enjoy this beautiful place. If you don't climb; just with your eyes is enough. Today with this rest day is enough".

"Patrick (The French Guy)"

VERY FISHY

Two climbers in the Alps were in desperate straits and about to give up the ghost. Suddenly, one said to the other, "I smell fish and chips."

The other sniffed the air. "So do I." This spurred them on, and finally they reached a monastery and knocked on the door. A figure appeared.

"Are you the holy friar?" they asked.

"No, I am only the chipmunk."
