We would like to thank recent speakers at club nights including Cheryl Peters and Alan Gardner for their entertaining and informative demonstration of gear and Graham Peters with his convincing talk on the joys of caving.

AND NOW FOR SOMETHING DIFFERENT - Aerial Tramping

Ever been stuck in Palmerston North on a beautiful Sunday wishing you had been organised enough to go tramping? Well now is your chance to get together with a few fellow club mates, charter a plane and view some of those favourite tramping haunts from the air. Find out why you ever bothered to get views the hard way. The list of those wanting to go aerial tramping is being compiled by Chris Morton Ph.77497 so contact him if you are interested.

TRIP REPORTS

5-7th June - Western Ruahines

We walked into the Purity Hut below Wooden Peg on the Hikurangi Range on the Friday evening to allow ourselves plenty of time to traverse south along the range next day. A bitterly cold frosty morning eventually turned into a nice sunny day. There was more time than required so time was spent sightseeing and practicing map and compass navigation. After lunch we descended to the Pourangaki River near the hut of the same name. The steep climb up to the hut was a shock to the system after the long descent.

Next day 3 hours were spent walking and wading down river to the Kelly Knight Hut. Alan and Jenny negotiated a deep pool by climbing around same rock and leaping for the shallows; Trevor and Trishy climbed higher on the bush slopes above. After lunch at Kelly Knight (and dry clothes) we walked out the sidle track and crossed Mr Yule's property back to Mangakokeke Rd.

Party: Trevor Bissell, Trishy Eder, Jenny Madgwick, Alan Mountfort.

25-26th July - Basic Snowcraft II Ruapehu

Although the moon was not as bright as that experienced at the introductory weekend, the walk into Blyth Hut nevertheless passed quickly and pleasantly. Perhaps we should have snowcrafted during the night as the morning weather did not bode well. We headed up into a valley to the south of the skifield but after enduring stinging wind blown snow and very cold conditions, retreated to a more sheltered valley lower down. One side gave reasonable conditions for all to practise the skills learnt earlier and to tackle some quite icy slopes for step cutting and self arresting. The true force of the wind was felt again at the top of the ridge so we motored back to the hut for a late lunch.

During the afternoon we split into four groups and discussed and practised rope handling, belay systems and other mountaineering skills inside. Skills of a culinary nature ended a busy day.

Returning to the higher slopes again on Sunday the weather behaved, so after some cramponing practise it was a case of belaying for real this time. Most quickly discovered things were (not?) quite so easy with mittened hands and steep icy slopes to contend with. By midday belaying was almost second nature so returning to the hut we lunched, packed up and returned to the vehicles. A useful weekend with many already planning for the advanced course.

We were:

Instructors - John Barkla, Trevor Bissell, Urs Schupbach, John Wright

Pupils - Marilyn Barnard, Ruth Habegger, Emlyn Wright, Trishia Eder, Erin Eggleston, Grant Barrow, Dave Newstead, Phil Clerke, David Sussmilch, Pat Janssen, Simon McCrackin, Graham Peters, Paul Scheveyns, Lorraine Bray, Janet Baird, Ian Mountfort.

14-16 August - Snowcraft III Egmont/Taranaki

The walk up from Dawson Falls road end to the Kapuni Lodge (Egmont Alpine Club) was reasonably painless and the lights of the towns and villages to the south and east were spectacular.

On Saturday we all kitted up and sidled around the slopes from the lodge to the valley above Kapuni Gorge. No time was wasted in crossing the valley because of the rocks which came bouncing down from time to time! The slopes of the Curtis Ridge were ascended on fixed belay under the watchful eye of Urs, Daryl, John (Wright) and Trevor who acted as instructors. After unroping and eating lunch the Tiki Tour continued up the crest of the Curtis Ridge to join the slopes above Fanthams Peak and returned to the Lodge over Fanthams. Although the condition of the snow below the Curtis

Ridge had been excellent the upper part of the trip was plagued by sastrugi ice. Needles or rods of clear water ice protruded from the snow in the direction of the prevailing wind and these broke off under the crampons causing considerable jarring and sometimes loss of footing. During the weekend three crampon bars and some crampon front points were broken!

Eight people climbed to the summit on Sunday and two of these attempted an ice climb on the Shark's Tooth. The remainders headed for Fanthams Peak an hour and a half later to practice snowcrafty techniques.

Altogether a great weekend with perfect weather.

6th September – Kapakapanui, Southwestern Tarauas

One thousand metres up the newsletter said, not one thousand millimetres as read by one of the group. Lunch near the bushline was a short affair due to the cold mist which engulfed the top of Kapakapanui and which had brought snow earlier in the day. Most people climbed to the trig but elected not to continue with the round trip in view of the weather. Instead we witnessed a hunter's dog's novel way of warming its feet - in its master's cup of thermos tea! Descending back into the sunshine, the river crossings were welcomed as a chance to wash very muddy legs before returning home.

We were: Kathy Morton, Christine Cheyne, Tina Gray and friend, Mary, Alan Mountfort, Jim Cooper, Janet Baird and John Barkla.
