21st-23rd October – Labour Weekend

A long weekend - what an opportunity to get away. PNTMC has two trips planned for this weekend. If you want to go plan ahead and call the trip leaders as soon as possible so arrangements can be made.

Snow Caving at Ruapehu

With the enthusiasm that abounded for the snowcraft courses this is good opportunity to put those new skills to use. The group will climb up to the crater where they will dig snow-caves to sleep in. Tucked up in your sleeping bags in your snow cave you will be in the best spot to take advantage of the new day (sunrises and sunsets) whether it be ski-touring, climbing or strolling.

Leader: Kevin Pearce ph. 70217
Grade: Fit/Snow experience necessary
Departs: To be arranged

21-23 October (Labour Weekend) Matemateaonga Wanganui National Park

Matemateaonga Walkway is situated in the Wanganui National Park. The plan is to leave Palmerston early Friday evening and camp at the Stratford end of the track overnight. This track has some great history and glimpses of Mts. Taranaki, Ruapehu, Tongariro and Ngauruhoe and I believe there are spectacular views from Mt Humpries. Some 40 km; after we will come out at the Wanganui River where jet boats will hopefully be waiting to take us back to Pipiriki and the mini bus.

We will be sleeping under the tent-fly so hut tickets won't be necessary but wet weather gear is a definite must. As numbers are limited register early if you are interested. Approx. cost is $80 which includes transport and Jet boat rides.

Leader: Ann Young ph. 70153
Grade: Easy/Medium
Departs: Friday pm

26th October – Club Night

Roger Redmayne has recently returned from a trip to Europe where he took part in a N.Z.-French Alpine Clubs Exchange and spent time mountaineering. Being his usual energetic self Roger also managed to get in both cycling and walking trips.

227 College St, Palmerston North
Time: 7:45pm

28th October – Eastern Ruahines Weekend

This trip will go into the Eastern Ruahines via Roswells Track up onto the Sawtooth Ridge to Howletts Hut for the night. Next day out via Daphne Hut by either a short route or a long route.

Grade: Medium - Fit
Departs: Saturday 7:00am

29th October – Tararua Day Trip

Tricia will take this day trip in by the Kapakapanui Track. This is a steepish climb but there is also an easy alternative in the area. An easy trip will be organised if there is sufficient interest.

TRIP REPORTS

Thanks to all those people, who have been dutifully writing up trip reports. I have a pile of them on my desk and hope to get a few in here and the rest in the next newsletter. - Ed.

27th August - West Tamaki River

Six of us headed off, in cloudy and windy weather, up the ridge that runs parallel to the West Branch of the Tamaki River. A certain person was raving on about the geological faulting that forms the eastern boundary of the Ruahine Ranges. (The West Branch and the ridge we were on follows this faulting. A number of low saddles aligned along this faulting were also clearly visible.) We had an extended lunch and brew at the hut before returning via the gravel choked riverbed. (The large amounts of gravels are due to the ease of eroding away the crushed rocks found in this fault zone.

On the way back we stopped in Woodville for a cuppa (Unfortunately at the same time as two bus loads of primary school rugby players!) and for a look at the local museum. We were: Terry Coburn and Crippen, Sheena Taylor, Maureen Woodruffe, Louise Atkinson, Stuart Boyd.

SUNRISE MID-WINTER CROSSING 30 JUNE - 2 JULY

Several of us decided to take the long way to the mid-winter feast at Sunrise Hut (with the thought that a little walk would help our appetites).

We all made our way up to Purity Hut on the Friday night (Thanks Kevin for helping with the transport). A quick brew before calling it a day but what a cold little hut though with the promise of a fine day it was worth putting up with.

An early start saw us on Wooden Peg as the sun started to rise. What a start to the day! – views in all directions with a recent snowfall adding to the beauty.

Lucky for us the, snow was firm and easy to walk in so it was only a short while to we were at Mangaweka. From there we shot down a frigid little creek into the top of the Kawhatau. Had to watch out for the ice covered rocks on the way down.

John and I had fun trying to keep our feet dry while walking up the Kawhatau. This ranged from hopping to sprinting at each crossing – a waste of time but fun.

Soon we were walking in snow again on the way to Rangi Saddle. Have to thank Urs and Dave for knocking the snow of all the bushes up to the top of the saddle – Made things a lot easier.

With gravity on our side it was a quick run down to Top Waikamaka Hut for lunch. This section was good rugby practise with lots of side stepping to miss all the Spaniards.

After our lunch stop, we had the next uphill section to Waikamaka Saddle to get behind us. It was obvious the creek never saw the sun – things were frozen solid. The uphill was becoming up, up, up hill! Thanks again to Urs and Dave for the good steps all the way to the top of Te Atuaoparapara. Time for a quick camera and Moro stop then onto the final leg to Sunrise Hut. This a welcome sight as our legs were starting to hang out for a rest. Poor Daryl had to walk out to the road (I bet you slept well that night!)

An excellent weekend and brilliant walk: we still are Simen Allen, Daryl Rowan; John Barkla, Bruce Barnes, Sally Richardson and Phil Clerke.
